VI. SPECIAL PRESENTATION

EVP Pinlac states that they will move on to reports and return to this item once their guests arrive.

03:23
A. INFORMATION ITEM: Dark Money Politics - Dr. Jennifer Ong

EVP Pinlac yields the floor to Dr. Jennifer Ong and she addresses the following:

- She’s with the League of Women Voters and they’re having a forum on Dark Money Politics. They’re interested in having this forum at this university.

- They are planning to have this event Monday, May 12th in the Multipurpose Room with Ann Ravel and she wants to know if this date works for the Board. The committee discusses that this date works and they think this is a great idea for the campus.

- Asks them for their feedback and states that the League of Women Voters will do most of the work for the event.

The committee discusses getting a blurb about what “dark money” is.

B. INFORMATION ITEM: Institutional Research on Smoking Survey – Amber Machamer

11:09 – EVP Pinlac announces that they will move back to the information item: Institutional Research on Smoking Survey and yields the floor to Amber Machamer and she addresses the following:

- Passes out documents and announces that she is the AVP of Planning and Institutional Research.

- Explains the purpose of Planning and Institutional Research on the campus.
  - They collect a lot of survey and institutional data from students, staff, and faculty.

- Discusses survey fatigue and states that too many surveys can overwhelm the population which makes people stop responding. She further states that this is unfortunate because there are a lot of important things on campus that they absolutely must have survey data for. Her office is trying to coordinate surveys with other departments in hopes of eliminating duplicate surveys.

- States that if you collect a lot of the same survey data but change nothing then this can make people think that you’re not listening to them and gives the impression that the people giving the survey don’t know what they’re doing.

- Expresses to them to not always assume that survey data is what they need; it all depends on what you’re trying to do with the survey.

- Suggests that if they do plan on doing a survey, keep it short, and reminder messages can be set up in a way that only the students that haven’t responded are sent them. Also, to sample – you don’t have to use the entire population, and stagger – wait awhile to send out a survey.

- Discusses the different types of data that could be collected other than surveying students, like collecting data from the health department or data from other CSUs.
They want to establish their research goals; determine their sample.

- The big picture is that data collection is the means to some end and they have to decide what that end is. Every question should have a purpose and an eye towards implementation.
- Focus group research can get you more detailed and rich information than surveys.
- The committee discusses their goals in getting information from students, faculty, and staff.

VII. REPORTS

A. President’s Report – Michelle Xiong

President Xiong addresses the following:

- CSSA update – for December, CSSA did not meet but they’ll be meeting next week, January 24-26 at Fullerton. Some of the things that they’ll be discussing at this meeting in Fullerton are the quarter to semester resolution, the CSSA fee, and the governor’s proposed budget.
- Explains what a student trustee is and encourages them to inform other students or to apply to the student trustee position. Some perks of being the CSU student trustee is that you would get your tuition waived but the position does entail a lot of work.
- In February, they want to start on their focus groups. In the past, ASI and other departments have tried surveying students but she wants to try something different this time – focus groups. Some of the focus groups they’ll look at are smoking, advising, and the library.
- They are having a hard time right now getting students involved. She is thinking of doing priority registration for committee and Board members in hopes that this will get more students interested in being a part of ASI.
- They can look forward to her contacting them regarding the strategic plan.

B. VP of Finance Report – Thamer Alhathal

VP Alhathal addresses the following:

- Presents the spending that took place this year from ASI.
- ASI is in good standing for their budget.
- Presents what they spent last quarter for club funding - they budgeted $20,000 but spent $18,490. The remainder will be added to the budget for winter quarter bringing that budget to $23,500.
- For the Programming Council, they budgeted $22,000 and spent $1,200. So they have almost $21,000 left to spend.
