VI. NEW BUSINESS ITEMS:

a. DISCUSSION ITEM - Elections Wrap Up

A. Solanki suggests that they can possibly have a review of what was done this year. J. Carroll, has his overview of his position which was attending weekly meetings and events. He suggests that if the positions for the committee are seated sooner than they should hold meetings before January. He would like to create volunteer expectations, so a professional environment is still held. By February, there should already be some plan (prior to the events) so that the committee realizes what is going to be needed for the events. He adds that possibly adding more marketing to the elections so that there is a bigger slate for Board during elections. He also suggests having a google drive folder so that if that individual cannot make it to the meeting the rest of the committee can still be aware of what is going on specifically with that person’s position. M. Lynch discusses the challenges- were having to keep in contact and communicate with different departments such as Aramark. She also added that having to market and getting in touch with marketing was a bit of a challenge, and needing to pin point specific areas that would attract more students while tabling?

D. Mohammed suggests having everything outlined and planned ahead of time with some rough draft calendar outline would be helpful. J. Carroll adds that they are hoping to add an elections tab onto the ASI website that will keep the stagnant information available at all times.

E. Pinlac adds that with semester system some things can change for the best because they will have more time, rather than the sped up system of quarter system. E. Pinlac also adds that with semester, students have more time to volunteer.

A. Solanki has a question for the board regarding after elections, marketing flyers etc are still around the school. A. Solanki suggests that there should be a deadline for getting rid of any marketing for elections set into the calendar, and it should be done by each individual who were part of the elections. He also asks E. Pinlac if ASI could post about the elections. E. Pinlac says that they can possibly have a specific member of the ASI marketing team to be the one to keep social media updated with elections and the slate. The committee continues to discuss possible ways to market for the new academic year.
