      1. DISCUSSION ITEM- It’s On Us
The Senate discusses the “It’s On Us” advocacy and scheduled events.

K. Dhillon will take place Wednesday, November 14th and Thursday, November 15th. The first day will be more of an information fair, having Title IX and University Police inform the students of how they are resource to them. K. Dhillon adds that for the 15th he has been working with Michael Cesena on having a panel that will speak to the students. On that panel Justin Prentince from the show Thirteen Reasons Why will be the special guest, K. Parada informs. K. Dhillon also informs the Senate that for giveaway items they will have t-shirts, which he is working with marketing on designing; there will also be flashlights and a couple other items. K. Parada suggests getting smaller giveaways rather than having t-shirts. R. Miller suggests wristbands, small stickers and pins. J. Bartlett agrees that pins are very trendy currently. K. 2. DISCUSSION ITEM- Hey, Be Nice
The Senate discusses the “Hey, Be Nice” advocacy and scheduled events. K. Dhillon discusses with the Senate that as of now he is planning to have this event take place during early February. He does not have a concrete plan for the activities of the event yet he does have some possible ideas. K. Disharoon shares that they would have a special guest who is very involved with awareness on mental illness, etc. R. Miller asks to clarify what the “Hey, Be Nice” campaign is about. E. Pinlac states that it started as a climate survey of students and faculty bullying, the results expressed that faculty encountered more bullying than students. The Board during that time period felt it was important to just cause awareness for bullying. It then transitioned into “spread kindness and not hate”, which he adds that it can be transitioned into something else if that is something that the senate would want to do.

3. DISCUSSION ITEM- Commuter Appreciation
The Senate discusses the “Commuter Appreciation” advocacy and scheduled events. K. Dhillon states that the budget does hold room for commuter appreciation, it is an event that has been held before. He suggests that it can also become smaller pop-events such as free coffee out on the parking lot- he would like to hear other ideas from the senate. J. Bartlett and R. Miller both add that they think that smaller pop up events are best because it allows for a greater amount of commuter students to be appreciated. J. Mercado also added that it can be a “ready to go” snack, so instead of morning coffee, they can get a snack for their drive back home. K. Parada suggests having a pilot run event in November or December so that they can be better prepared for Spring. E. Pinlac does add that the budget is not a big as it has been in previous years for commuter appreciation day, so does agree with having smaller giveaway items. K. Dhillon reminds the senate that commuter appreciation will be held various days during the spring semester.

K. Parada suggests that she would want to start a “love yourself campaign” because she does think that it is important especially with college students who are stressed. R. Miller adds that they could use big mirrors and have expo markers that students could write down compliments on. K. Disharoon shares with the Senate that it has been done at other Cal States where they name it “Love Every BODY” usually taking place during February/March. R. Finazzo states that this will be added to the next agenda so there can be further discussion.
