I. The College of Business and Economics (CBE) values contributions from faculty who participate in the intellectual and organizational life of the college or program.

II. Participating faculty. A CBE faculty member is a participating faculty member if he/she annually performs at least two of the following activities beyond classroom instruction, intellectual contributions and office hours:

A. Participates in university, college, department or program meetings.
B. Participates in curriculum or program related activities, such as curriculum or program reviews and updates.
C. Serves on university, college, department or program committees.
D. Serves on university, college, department or program task forces.
E. Participates in university, college, department or program advisory board activities.
F. Serves as a faculty advisor to a business student organization or an academic program.
G. Participates in university, college, department or program student-focused activities such as mandatory advising and internship programs.
H. Directly participates in other activities that contribute to the mission of the college.

III. Supporting faculty A CBE faculty member is a supporting faculty member if he/she does not participate in the intellectual and organizational life of the college or program, beyond teaching and intellectual contributions. In other words, if a faculty member is not a participating faculty member then he/she is a supporting faculty member.

IV. Documentation. Beginning Feb. 1, 2008, faculty will annually document their status as participating faculty on the same form used to establish AQ or PQ status.
