Computer Chips Dipped

By Kat Butcher

The cost of saving a month in downtown Hayward may be more than the price of a ticket. Desert businesses have closed their doors, the result of which at least one comes because of an increase in rent associated with the area’s becoming a “hot zone.” Desert Theatre is in the process of being moved to a new location, but the business is not officially set to move until the fall of 2013, when the new location is ready. "We are no longer involved; (The Shark Shack) is not a part of the stores and restaurants that will accompany the construction of the theater and the selection of Main Street Property Services is in charge of that," said Joe Bartlett, owner of the building. "As far as rent increases, we are not responsible because we own the building." But Bartlett claims it was because the business once the facility opens. The theater is expected to be finished in the fall of 2013.

Bill Would Cap Fee Increases

By Kerry Rif

The last-minute student bills lawmakers may be trying to cut after being introduced in the state legislature has 1,686 non-faculty members.

CMCSA’s Katrina Students Face Big Decision

By Carla Fournier

The Cal State East Bay computer server was hacked in June. In the weeks following the breach, CSUEB handled 4,448 requests for information, over 90% of which were for personal information. Oftentimes, students ask if the breach could have been avoided. "There were several factors including the server’s location in the downtown area. The server was not secured by the city but had been purchased through the University to run the center’s site," said Diana Balgas, Director of Student Affairs. CSUEB also faces a possible increase in cost because of the problem and which Web sites would be shut down due to the problem. Students are given two options: look for other Web sites or make a notification fee (HK 1386) and in some cases, the center’s services. The Information and Computing Services Department has prepared several tips that help students avoid unauthorized access to the server. CSUEB has also been featured in the New York Times article. The article covers the concerns of students about the breach and how it affects their privacy. The center is also responsible for running the Academic Services.

Pythons, Geckos and Iguanas, Oh My!

By Bethie Pennington

“I get at least a phone call a day, people asking if this is a bar, strip club or a marijuana-on-op club,” said Dickey. “As ‘Reptile Room’, located at 2225 A Street in Hayward, is none of the above.”

Reptiles Roost at ‘Room’

By Kat Butcher

Bunty, the 101-year-old boa constrictor, has turned his bar into quite a conversation piece. There are at least a dozen people sitting in the Reptile Room including this albino Burmese python. Bunty can grow over 20 feet long.

Trends Eye: The Beatles Have a Home to a 1-year-old Burmese python

By Carla Fournier

Bunty is the Beatles in a house to a 1-year-old Burmese python. Bunty is the Beatles in a house to a 1-year-old Burmese python. Bunty is the Beatles in a house to a 1-year-old Burmese python.

Not Exactly How Theta Chi Imagined ‘Razing’ the Roof

By Bethie Pennington

Although their new location is across the street from their old store, the Reptile Room is home to a 3-year-old python that is nearly as big as the building. The theater is expected to be finished in the fall of 2013.

Not Exactly How Theta Chi Imagined ‘Razing’ the Roof

By Bethie Pennington

The Reptile Room is home to a 3-year-old python that is nearly as big as the building. The theater is expected to be finished in the fall of 2013.

Not Exactly How Theta Chi Imagined ‘Razing’ the Roof

By Bethie Pennington

CSUEB has recently gone out of business due to the construction of the building. The construction is expected to continue for another two years. The center is also responsible for running the Academic Services.

Reptiles Roost at ‘Room’

By Kat Butcher

Bunty, the 101-year-old boa constrictor, has turned his bar into quite a conversation piece. There are at least a dozen people sitting in the Reptile Room including this albino Burmese python.

Not Exactly How Theta Chi Imagined ‘Razing’ the Roof

By Bethie Pennington

The Reptile Room is home to a 3-year-old python that is nearly as big as the building. The theater is expected to be finished in the fall of 2013.

Not Exactly How Theta Chi Imagined ‘Razing’ the Roof

By Bethie Pennington

The Reptile Room is home to a 3-year-old python that is nearly as big as the building. The theater is expected to be finished in the fall of 2013.

Not Exactly How Theta Chi Imagined ‘Razing’ the Roof

By Bethie Pennington

The Reptile Room is home to a 3-year-old python that is nearly as big as the building. The theater is expected to be finished in the fall of 2013.

Not Exactly How Theta Chi Imagined ‘Razing’ the Roof

By Bethie Pennington

The Reptile Room is home to a 3-year-old python that is nearly as big as the building. The theater is expected to be finished in the fall of 2013.