At 10:00 AM and 7:00 PM, Tuesday, August 21, 2007, the Concord Blue Devils Drum and Bugle Corps will compete at the Stanford University Farm. Next to the west side of the Stanford Stadium, the Blue Devils will start to perform their 2007 show, which is their signature piece of music that includes a large drum line and color guard. The Blue Devils will have the opportunity to compete for the highest honor of winning the World Championship. The Blue Devils are known for their high-quality performances and their ability to please audiences with their vibrant colors and music. The show is designed to move the audience through a range of emotions and leave them with a lasting impression.

The Blue Devils are a non-profit organization that is dedicated to providing educational and entertainment opportunities for their members. The organization believes in the power of music and art to bring people together and make a positive impact on the world. They are committed to providing a safe and supportive environment for their members to grow and succeed.

The show is free to the public, and attendees are encouraged to come early to find a good seat. The Stanford Stadium is located at 400 Cagan Way, Stanford, CA 94305. For more information or to purchase tickets, please visit www.concordbluedevils.com or call (650) 578-6650.
