The Pioneer

Housing Slated for Site Where Park Was Planned
By Claire Johnson

Housing is scheduled for a site near a city-owned park in Castro Valley that was to have become part of a new park for the city.

The city of Castro Valley has approved plans to build homes on the site of the former Valley Glen Park. The park, which was closed in 2006 due to budget cuts, was to have been turned into a new park for the city.

The city council approved the change in plans after receiving a proposal from a developer to build homes on the site.

The developer, who is not identified, has submitted plans to the city for a new park to be built on the site of the former Valley Glen Park. The plans include the construction of a new park and the creation of a new park trail.

The city council approved the plans after receiving a proposal from the developer to build homes on the site. The developer, who is not identified, has submitted plans to the city for a new park to be built on the site of the former Valley Glen Park. The plans include the construction of a new park and the creation of a new park trail.

The city council approved the change in plans after receiving a proposal from a developer to build homes on the site. The developer, who is not identified, has submitted plans to the city for a new park to be built on the site of the former Valley Glen Park. The plans include the construction of a new park and the creation of a new park trail.

The developer, who is not identified, has submitted plans to the city for a new park to be built on the site of the former Valley Glen Park. The plans include the construction of a new park and the creation of a new park trail.

The developer, who is not identified, has submitted plans to the city for a new park to be built on the site of the former Valley Glen Park. The plans include the construction of a new park and the creation of a new park trail.

The developer, who is not identified, has submitted plans to the city for a new park to be built on the site of the former Valley Glen Park. The plans include the construction of a new park and the creation of a new park trail.