Women’s Studies Program Learning Outcomes

Students graduating with a minor in Women’s Studies from California State University, East Bay will be able to:

1. Understand feminist theoretical and methodological perspectives on culture and society.
2. Have the analytical competency to critique social inequalities founded on the intersections of gender, race, ethnicity, class, sexuality and nation.
3. Critically reflect upon their own lives from a feminist perspective.
4. Comprehend the challenges of dismantling sexism and other oppressive beliefs.
5. Demonstrate the ability to access knowledge, design, and carry out individual and group research projects, and present them clearly, logically, and persuasively.