

HOW TO CLEAR YOUR CREDENTIAL FOR CALIFORNIA PREPARED TEACHERS

Complete Renewal Requirements Listed On Your Preliminary Credential

If your Preliminary credential has the R14I renewal code then you must complete an Induction program to earn the Clear credential. Induction is a two-year job-embedded individualized program focused on extensive support and mentoring for new teachers in their first and second year of teaching and is commonly offered in cooperation with your employing school district.

If your Preliminary credential has the TPA renewal code then you must pass an approved Teaching Performance Assessment (TPA) to earn the Clear credential. Passage of a TPA is typically done prior to issuance of a Preliminary credential, but due to flexibilities resulting from COVID-19, some credential candidates were able to be recommended for the Preliminary credential without having completed TPA.

If your Preliminary credential has the RICA renewal code then you must pass the Reading Instruction Competence Assessment (RICA) to earn the Clear credential. Passage of the RICA is typically done prior to issuance of a Preliminary credential, but due to flexibilities resulting from COVID-19, some credential candidates were able to be recommended for the Preliminary credential without having completed RICA.

Alternative Option

Complete National Board Certification

Teachers who are certified by the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS) after obtaining a California Preliminary teaching credential can be issued a Clear credential in the subject area in which they have received national certification. The following may apply to Clear their Credentials:

HOW TO CLEAR YOUR CREDENTIAL FOR CALIFORNIA PREPARED TEACHERS

What if I can't clear my credential in time?

If your credential will expire before you are able to complete your requirements, it is possible to appeal for an extension of time by submitting a 41-4 form, application processing fee, and supporting documentation, including additional forms depending on the length of the extension.

Please note: appeals for extensions are granted on a case-by-case basis.

Three-Year Extension

To be eligible for a three-year extension, you cannot be currently employed in a teaching position and must verify that you were only employed for less than one school year or that you were not employed in a position eligible for induction. You must submit CL-884 form and a statement explaining why renewal requirements were not met with a plan to complete the renewal requirements during the period of the extension. Only one three-year extension may be issued within an educator's lifetime.

Two-Year Extension

If you are employed in a teaching position that allows you to enroll in a teacher induction program but haven't been employed long enough to earn the Clear credential, you may be eligible for a two-year extension. Verification of employment in a position eligible to enroll in induction and verification of eligibility for enrollment in an induction program must be provided on CL-885 form.

One-Year Extension

You may be eligible for a one-year extension due to one or more of the following: medical reasons that occurred during the term of the credential which affected you, your family, or a household member, or other extenuating circumstances such as unemployment in the field of teaching, leaving the state, or demands of job or family. Unfortunately, financial hardship and failure to pass exams cannot be used as reasons for appeal.

You must provide a self-written letter stating the circumstances or reasons which necessitate the appeal. If the reason for the appeal is medical, a physician's statement describing the nature and duration of the illness must be submitted and a birth or death certificate may be required, as applicable. If induction is one of the requirements for clearing the credential, you must submit either proof of enrollment in induction or a letter from an employing agency verifying that you will be enrolled once you are employed.
