What is NAHSE?

• Mission Statement
  • The National Association of Health Services Executives (NAHSE) is a non-profit association of Black health care executives founded in 1968 for the purpose of promoting the advancement and development of Black health care leaders, and elevating the quality of health care services rendered to minority and underserved communities.
  • NAHSE’s purpose is to ensure greater participation of minority groups in the health field. Its basic objective is to develop and maintain a strong viable national body to more effectively have input in the national health care delivery system. It has provided a vehicle for Blacks to effectively participate in the design, direction and delivery of quality health care to all people.

• Our Vision
  • NAHSE will be recognized globally as the premier professional membership society for Blacks in health care management. NAHSE strives to improve the health status, economic opportunities and educational advancement of the communities we serve. NAHSE is committed to the Association goals by providing: Professional Programs/Workshops Educational Programs A Job Bank/Mentoring Scholarship Student Internship Community Service Projects Health Policy Impact Expanding Business Contracting Opportunities

• Our History
  • NAHSE places its origin as far back as the early 1930’s, when a group of black health executives formed what was then called the National Hospital Association (NHA), an affiliate of the National Medical Association (NMA). In 1936, a meeting of all “Negro hospital executives” was called and held at Lincoln Hospital in Durham, NC. At that meeting, the NHA was renamed the National Conference of Hospital Administration (NCHA). Dr. Albert W. Dent was named Chairman and Mr. John Procope was named Secretary-Treasurer. After several changes in leadership, the Conference’s activities were limited to one informal meeting held in conjunction with the annual AHA meeting. In 1968, NAHSE was formed and Mr. Everett V. Fox was named the first President.

Student Case Competition

About the Case Competition

The Case Competition is a scholarship program, where graduate programs in Health Administration, Business Administration and Public Health are invited to form teams of 1-3 students. Student teams are given a unique case study and are charged with applying their creativity, knowledge and experience to analyze the diverse and real situations facing the healthcare organization featured in the case.

How does the competition work?

- Graduate Programs in Health Administration and related fields form teams of one to three students.
- All participating student teams shall be composed of at least one (1), preferably more, African American students.
- Three weeks prior to the Competition each team receives the case study to analyze and form recommendations.
- During the Competition, each team has twenty (20) minutes to present their analysis and recommendations, which is followed by a ten (10) minute questions and answer period.
- Presentations are made before a panel of judges representing leaders in the health care field, corporate sponsors and academia.

Benefits of Participating

- Challenges
- Fellowship and Early Careerist Opportunities
- Recognition
- Exposure to other health administration and business administration programs
- Exposure to industry executives
- Networking Opportunities
How was your overall experience in the competition?

“My experience as a case competition participant was amazing. It allowed me the opportunity to put what I was learning in the classroom to practice. In turn, I was able to use that real world experience while interviewing for fellowships and jobs. The experience was also a great foundation to building what I believe to be lifelong relationships and friendships with my peers from other universities.”
How was your overall experience in the competition?

“It was a great experience. It allowed me to put into practice many of the concepts that I learned during my Masters Program, the opportunity to further develop my presentation skills and the exposure to connect with healthcare leaders across the country.”

Do you feel that participating in the competition was an asset to you growth as a professional?

“Yes it surely was. It further enhanced my business acumen, confidence in presenting and strengthening my network, especially with Kaiser Permanente as the sponsors and through the benefit of my team winning the 2016 case competition.”
