CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY, EAST BAY is the San Francisco East Bay area’s high-access public university of choice. CSUEB serves the region with two scenic campuses — one in the Hayward Hills overlooking San Francisco Bay and the other in Concord. The University also operates a state-of-the-art professional development center in downtown Oakland and an innovative online campus, making it the California State University system’s e-learning leader. With a growing enrollment of almost 13,000, the University attracts students from throughout the region and state, as well as from more than 80 countries around the world. Named a “Best in the West” college and a “Best Business School” by the influential Princeton Review, Cal State East Bay offers a nationally recognized freshman year experience, award-winning curriculum, personalized instruction, distinctly pragmatic and applied learning, and expert faculty. Students choose from among more than 100 professionally focused fields of study for which the University confers bachelor’s and master’s degrees, and an Ed.D. in education. Today, the University is among the region’s foremost producers of teachers, business professionals and entrepreneurs, public administrators, literary and performing artists, and science and math graduates.

Mission

To provide an academically rich, multicultural learning experience that prepares all of its students to realize their goals, pursue meaningful lifework, and to be socially responsible contributors to their communities, locally and globally.

Vision

Cal State East Bay’s strategic plan calls for an ambitious expansion of enrollment and programs, now underway. At the center of this vision is an innovative and uniquely hands-on approach to science, technology, math, and engineering (STEM) education. By 2020 — with a projected enrollment of 20,000 — CSUEB will be a regional leader in developing the next-generation technical workforce, preparing teachers of STEM, and working with partners in business and education to prepare K-12 students for STEM education and careers that are the future of the region and the nation.

History

Founded in 1957 as the State College for Alameda County, the University’s Hayward Campus officially opened in 1963. In 1972, the college was renamed California State University, Hayward, reflecting its evolution as part of the California State University system. In the half century since its inception, CSUEB has grown dramatically and expanded its regional reach, adding a Concord campus in 1992, an Oakland professional development center in 2001, and an online campus in 2008. Recognizing its regional heritage and growing stewardship role, the Board of Trustees of the California State University changed the institution’s name to California State University, East Bay on January 26, 2005.
