"Charlotte's Web" Is Spun by CSUEB Thespians

NEWS STAFF REPORT

L dago residents who may have missed the recently released film of "Charlotte's Web" now have an opportunity to see a live action version of the tale in their own backyard.

CSUEB's Department of Theatre and Dance will be staging its own production of E.B. White's classic children's novel. "Charlotte's Web" runs Thursday through Saturday in the University Theatre, 2000 Carlotta Blvd., Hayward.

"Charlotte's Web" is a story of friendship and salvation, said. "It is a great children's story that will be enjoyed by children and adults alike."

The production will feature purples and live actors ranging in age from children to those in their sixties. "We are children who will enjoy the play," said one of the children cast members, "and reading 'Charlotte's Web' in their own backyard."

"Charlotte's Web" is a story of friendship and salvation, said. "It is a great children's story that will be enjoyed by children and adults alike."

The performance will be in the University Theatre, 2000 Carlotta Blvd., Hayward, May 3-5. For more information call 510-885-3167.