New Course Offers Filmmaking A Through Z

By Ginger Staley

T hose interested in learning the ins and outs of filmmaking can take advantage of the new course offered at CSUEB's Hayward campus. The four week program will be offered at the price of the textbook. The course will be offered in four sessions every Saturday in March at the Oakland campus.

The course is for students who have never taken a film class before and want to learn the basics. The course will cover everything from writing a script to editing a film.

Smith's “Quality of Life,” about a woman who is dealing with stereotypes and sexual taboos, will be shown. The audience will be shown the film and then have the opportunity to have a discussion with the film student who directed the film. The discussion will be led by a professor who is a film student.
