

Hope, Family, and Possibility: A year-long photovoice project co-facilitated by Dr. Sarah Taylor and three MSW students, with 11 artists with developmental disabilities at the Arc of Alameda County. The purpose of the project was to empower a population whose voices are rarely heard to share their experiences with the general public, as well as to augment the Arc's program evaluation efforts with a qualitative perspective. The photovoice exhibit was presented in the Biella Room in May 2014 and the CSUEB team of facilitators traveled to Boston together to present at the peer-reviewed Network for Social Work Management conference in June 2014. The project was co-funded by the Department of Social Work at CSU East Bay and the Arc of Alameda County, through a grant they received from the California Arts Council and National Arts and Disability Center at the University of California, Los Angeles.
