Pioneer Pals Explorer Club is for upper elementary and middle school aged children with disabilities who want to practice social skills in the context of fun and engaging games and activities. Camp activities will focus on building campers' social emotional learning while practicing social communication skills in the context of group games and activities. Campers will also engage in enriching project based learning in STEM, art, music and theatre, and coding.

Supervised by certified speech language pathologists and educational psychologists, campers will learn new skills that promote wellness, stress management, friendships and social interactions, all from the comfort of their own homes and in small groups with high staff-camper ratios.

Campers will need to be able to engage in on-line camp independently or with support from a family member.
