In Hayward—It's a Second Chance for a First Class Life

"I just don't know any other way to do it. But I am not going back, I am only going forward and I am getting better," he concluded as he dropped his head and twisted his hands. One of the group's member patted Vincent on the back comfortingly. Another man raised his hand.
"Hi I am David and I am an addict," he said, looking at Vincent. "I am trying to do things that I can (to) help someone else. I don't have much friends and I have hurt a lot of people with my drug addiction so I have been collecting lots of information that may help you find a place to live."
"There are lots of programs out there to help us," David said. "I signed up for an AIDs walk, a walk for leukemia and some other groups. It just makes me feel good that while I am fighting my drug addiction, if I can be busy to help someone else, it helps me become stronger to fight my addiction."

As the Wednesday session wound down for the evening, everyone stood up and held hands and said the serenity prayer. I was also asked to read one of the closeout session sheets about strength for a recovering addict.
The public meeting was closed and a small business meeting was held. Donations were accepted so the group could order brochures and supplies.
Finally, Linda, a group leader, said that if anyone wanted to stay around after the meeting to speak with the Cal State student writing the story, that would be great.

Six members remained behind to answer questions and share their stories.
"I am Linda and I am a recovering addict," Linda said, starting things off.
"I began using drugs since I was four years old," she said. "I had problems with my bladder and my urethra did not grow properly. My doctor would put me on this drug and (he would) put me on that drug. The type of drugs that were addictive for me were all of them – I went from drug to drug and they caused all types of chemical imbalance."
Linda explained how her mother never accepted what had happened to her or expressed any sympathy for Linda. Linda's 16-year-old daughter, on the other hand, has helped her a lot.

THE MANY PERILS OF OVER-STUDYING
by half.com

Julie wanted to fit in at college, so she did English.

And soon Julie was doing English every weekend. It was the best of times. Julie was swept away from reality.

English on half.com was cheaper, so Julie did twice as much. She went crazy—nesting with cuckoos and developing a fear of wrathful grapes.

Today Julie is seen every so often on the subway, where she rambles on in incoherent soliloquies, asking for spare change in iambic pentameter. Julie smells repugnant.

LEARN FROM JULIE.
Just because half.com is cheaper doesn't mean you need to buy twice as much English. Use your savings for good on half.com and try a video game instead.
